PC Communications

For yet greater power and functionality, you can choose to connect your AX-100 to PC and the David Utility

The David Utility is a simple, fun-to-use software programme, supplied on a disc, that puts you completely in control of all the powerful functions available on the AX-100.

David simplifies setting up the AX100 for use and allows you to programme all aspects of the AX-100 and store that data on your PC for security. It also makes it easier to programme subsequent machines, if you have more than one.

David even includes a keyboard labelling utility so that you can print key-top labels in colour for the AX-100 keyboard.

The David Utility and cable to connect to PC are available from your Geller dealer. The User Guide is contained on the disc for you to print.
